

New York, like most cities, has a large homeless population. This person seeks shelter, and some sleep in a New York subway station.