

High-tech medical equipment (top) is expensive, but in places such as Ethiopia (bottom), hospitals have few resources, and physicians must use whatever limited technology is available.