

The Rwandan government has a higher percentage of women in its legislature than any government in the world.