

CONCEPT CHECK

- Describe four major types of brain imaging techniques currently being used, and identify a psychological disorder for which each is especially valuable.
- What are some of the trade-offs that researchers and clinicians must consider when choosing a brain imaging technique? What questions help inform their decision?