

■ FIGURE 9.4 How Would Nerve Damage Influence Our Sense of Touch?

Depending on which nerve in the hand was damaged, one would lose sensation in either the left or right part of the hand. This figure shows the region of skin innervation of the ulnar nerve in blue. The sensitivity of the other part of the hand would be controlled by the radial nerve.

Source: From Tandon et al. (2009, p. 8).

