

The United Nations estimates that 4% of the population of the world uses cannabis, and the United States is one of the larger users.