

Kay Jamison received her PhD in clinical psychology from UCLA and is a professor of psychiatry at Johns Hopkins University. She has written significant books describing the scientific and clinical aspects of bipolar disorders (e.g., Goodwin & Jamison, 2007) as well as her own experiences in An Unquiet Mind (Jamison, 1996).