

What happens when faced with a potential threat? According to Cannon, the body prepares you either to fight or to leave the scene.