

Exposure to secondhand smoke during infancy has been consistently linked to future criminal behavior.