

Jail cells can be sparse and uncomfortable. Considering that a large proportion of those housed in jails have not been convicted of any crime, is this reasonable? Is it reasonable for those who have been convicted of a crime? Why or why not?