

New prisons continue to be built, despite the high costs of maintaining and operating the facilities. Private prisons have gained popularity, though critics suggest they offer less adequate facilities and care. What arguments would you present to support private prison use?